

FILM SCREENING: The Economics of Happiness
followed by a discussion with Julie Matthaei,
Economics Professor at Wellesley College

Monday March 28th, 6:30 pm
Tufts U Barnum Hall, Rm. 008
163 Packard Ave, Medford (side entrance on Packard Ave)

Sponsored by:

State Representative Denise Provost,
Boston Area Solidarity Economy Network,
Mass. Coalition for Healthy Communities (masschc.org),
Somerville Community Growing Center
(theGrowingCenter.org),
Somerville Local First (SomervilleLocalFirst.org), Greater Boston Slow Money, and Somerville Climate Action (SomervilleClimateAction.org)

the Economics of Happiness

Free Admission!

The Economics of Happiness is a film that offers not only a big-picture analysis of globalization, but a powerful message of hope for the future. The thinkers and activists interviewed for the film come from every continent, and represent the interests of the great majority of people on the planet today. Their message is unambiguous: in order to respect and revitalize diversity, both cultural and biological, we need to localize economic activity.

Featuring voices from six continents, including:

Vandana Shiva, Bill McKibben, David Korten, Zac Goldsmith, Michael Shuman, Samdhong Rinpoche, Andrew Simms, Richard Heinberg, Chris Johnstone, Juliet Schor, Clive Hamilton, Keibo Oiwa, Rob Hopkins

See <http://campusmaps.tufts.edu/medford/> for directions. Please bike or use public transportation (<http://publicsafety.tufts.edu/adminsvc/?pid=6>).

www.theeconomicsofhappiness.org